

From thebahamasweekly.com -

Service Organizations

World Animal Day - Call for photos of Bahamas participation

By Stephen Turnquest, Bahama Humane Society

Sep 22, 2009 - 3:02:58 PM

In recognizing World Animal Day on the 4th October 2009, the Bahamas will join many other countries around the world in celebration of this day. This is known to others as St Francis of Assisi Day, the patron saint of animals, the Bahamas Humane Society is encouraging all animal welfare groups and owners of animals to do something special for animals on this day.

The Parish of St Christopher's and the Bahamas Humane Society will be holding a St Francis of Assisi service for all animals and pets, on Sunday October 4th at 4:30pm at St Christopher's church at Lyford Cay. Please bring your animals and pets and share in this wonderful service celebrated by Arch Deacon Keith Cartwright.

As the Ambassador for World Animal Day 2009 for The Bahamas I would like to encourage Pet owners, Schools, Surrey Operators and Riding Stables to organize something to show your appreciation for animals in our country and please e-mail photos of your events (bhscruelty@gmail.com) so that I can highlight them on www.worldanimalday.org.uk under the Bahamas events. This way we can show the world how much people of The Bahamas appreciate animals in our country. Last year only Grand Bahama and New Providence held events on this day, I want to encourage the Family Islands to get involve by doing their part, there are many things we can enjoy doing with our animals.

Stephen Turnquest

Ambassador for World Animal Day

Bahamas.

© Copyright 2009 by thebahamasweekly.com -